

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

Old, John Whitehead, Jr.....	Petersburg, Va.
Oliver, L. LeRoy	University of Va.
Plummer, Leaven B.....	Portsmouth, Va.
Saul, John Peter, Jr.....	Pulaski, Va.
Sherertz, J. Samuel.....	Lexington, Va.
Sibert, Walter.....	Norfolk, Va.
Straley, Daniel Benjamin.....	Lexington, Va.

IN VACATION.

Had Tried Those Who Had.—Judge Ben B. Lindsey, the noted reformer, of Denver, was lunching one day—it was very warm—when a politician paused beside his table.

"Judge," said the politician, "I see you're drinking hot cawfee. That's a heatin' drink."

"Yes," said Judge Lindsey.

"Oh, yes. In this weather you want iced drinks, Judge—sharp, iced drinks. Did you every try iced gin and ginger ale?"

"No," said the Judge, smiling, "but I've tried several fellows who have."—New York Press.

BOOK REVIEWS.

All book reviews are by the editor in chief unless otherwise expressly stated.

Outline of the Jurisdiction and Procedure of the Federal Courts, by Joseph R. Long, Professor of Law in Washington and Lee University. Author of "Law of Irrigation," "Law of Domestic Relations," "Introduction to the Study of Law," etc., etc. Second Edition, containing the Judicial Code of 1911. The Michie Company, Charlottesville, Va. 1911. Price $2.50.

"Infinite riches in a little room" would be a fair description of this admirable book, which presents in a brief but comprehensive manner the subject of Federal Jurisdiction, giving the complete text of the new Federal Judicial Code which goes into effect January 1st, 1912. The great change which this Code makes renders this work simply invaluable to the busy lawyer who has little time to devote to the working up of the subject for himself.

It is to be much regretted that the learned author, in his brief description of the procedure of the Federal Courts, did not in his concise and excellent manner treat of the method of taking appeals from the new District Courts to the Circuit Courts of Appeals and from them to the United States Supreme Court. There is no subject of Federal Procedure as to which there is so much uncertainty and doubt, especially among lawyers unaccustomed to practice in the Federal Courts and among a good many who do. The importance to the law student of having this subject briefly yet clearly explained to him is apparent. We trust that in the next edition the author may give us the benefit of his learning and clarity of statement upon this important branch of Federal Procedure.